

Social and Personal

MR. and Mrs. William H. Hoofnagle are at home at 201 East Franklin Street, after spending the summer in Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Hoofnagle visited the British Isles and traveled through parts of Southern Europe, spending some time in Paris and Vienna. They sailed from Naples September 13 on the steamship Ramona, on the White Star Line, and landed in Boston September 25.

White Sulphur Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Mary Porter Sands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sands, of this city, and William Echols, of Alderson, West Virginia, took place Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Sloan in the drawing room of the hotel, which was decorated in palms and flowers for the occasion. The bride wore a traveling dress of pink, with a black picture hat, and was attended by her sister, Miss Virginia Sands, who wore a frock of soft white silk.

To Build Summer Home.

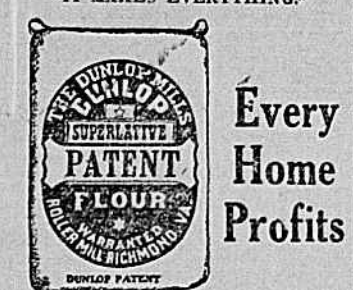

One of the most interesting real estate deals of recent years is the purchase of about forty acres of the eastern slope of Betsy Bell, near Staunton, Va., a famous valley landmark, rich in history and tradition, by Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of this city. Mrs. Campbell will erect one of the handsomest homes in that section of the country, the building probably being completed next spring. Mrs. Campbell spent the past four months at the Gibbs' handsome bungalow just outside of Staunton.

Miss Lillian Martin. Of interest to society here is the wedding of Miss Lillian Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Graham Martin, to the Rev. William Baird McIlwaine, which took place yesterday evening at 6 o'clock in St. Paul's Church, Petersburg. The church was decorated with palms and ferns.

Miss Mary Booth Martin attended her sister as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Joseph Alston Claiborne McIlwaine and Miss Lucy Atkinson McIlwaine. They wore gowns of soft white satin, veiled in chiffon and

Dunlop Flour

"IT MAKES EVERYTHING."

Hundreds of Richmond people make their living by making and marketing DUNLOP FLOUR. The bags and barrels are made in Richmond. The money is spent with Richmond merchants and professional men. Every home profits by using DUNLOP FLOUR.

The Dunlop Mills, Richmond, Va.

New Malaga Raisins

They are here; fine, large, meaty ones, with a fine flavor. 30c. Everything else that goes to make up a complete stock of Fancy Groceries.

Hermann Schmidt,

504-8 E. Broad Street.

J. B. Mosby & Co.

Invite your inspection of FALL GOODS Now Ready

Can't Eat, no desire to!

Drink PANACEA Mineral Spring Water. Presto! Owens & Minor Drug Co. can supply you.

"Little Broadway"

Always the Newest Styles in "SUITS THAT SUIT" 212 N. Fifth Street.

Boys' Hand-Tailored Suits, $7.50 to $12.00.

Tyler's

First and Broad Sts. Richmond, Va.

Ladies' $3 High-Cut Shoes

Gun metal and patent colt. $2

Porter's Specialty Shoe Store,

215-217 North Fifth Street.

Fair Dealing Always. Fair Prices Prevail. Fair Visitors Welcome. Two Big Stores—West Broad. East Main.

Pitts Furniture Co.

Sale of Leather Bags

Gunmetal and gilt frames; an exceptional Bag in black; usually sells for $1.50; special to-day 98c

Kaufmann & Co.

Trimmed in pearl embroidery, and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was gown in white satin, trimmed in princess lace and embroidered in pearls.

Her tulle veil was arranged with orange blossoms and her bouquet was of bride roses.

Robert McIlwaine friend was the groom's best man and the groomsmen included: J. Dunn Martin, A. G. McIlwaine, Jr., R. Martin Cooper, J. Nat Harrison, Dr. Samuel Budd, of Petersburg; Dr. Robert Jones, New York; Richard Carrington, Richmond; Edgar Gammon, Fredericksburg.

Returned to Baltimore. Miss Martina Valentine, of Richmond, who was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Thompson at her summer home in the Green Spring Valley, Md., has returned to Baltimore.

Miss Martina Valentine is a pupil at Mrs. McNeill's school, at Glencoe, Md. This winter.

Cottillon Saturday Night. Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Belvidere Hall the members of the younger society set in Richmond will have their opening cottillon for the season. These cottillons, which are most enjoyable affairs, will continue through the winter, generally closing with a big favor given at Easter.

Miss Binford will have the smaller boys and girls at afternoon dances some time next week.

Miss Lemmon Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Southgate Lemmon, of Baltimore, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Grace, to Mr. Gwynne Taylor, of Mount Airy, Va., the wedding to be celebrated early in December. Miss Lemmon spends most of the summer every year at her parents' handsome estate in Fauquier county, Va., and is prominently related throughout the portion of the State.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are widely connected and the wedding will be one of the fashionable events of the early winter.

Called Meeting.

There will be a called meeting of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society in the Confederate at Easter. Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Business of importance is to be transacted and all members are urged to be present at this meeting.

In and Out of Town.

Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Welford and family have moved into their new home on Monument Avenue.

Mrs. Julien Binford and daughters, Misses Ella and Lillian Binford, will be with Miss Lucy Temple, 31 West Grace Street, this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott, who are touring the Valley in their automobile, were recent guests of Mrs. R. P. Page, at Berryville, Va.

Miss Esther Jordan is the guest of friends in the city and will visit friends in Petersburg before returning to her home in Norfolk.

Samuel Lacy, of Richmond, is visiting M. G. Willis, Jr., in Fredericksburg, for a few days.

Miss Annie Bowman, of this city, is the guest of the Misses Freeman at their home in Roanoke.

Misses Fannie and Sallie Hobson have returned to Richmond, after spending the summer at their country place in Goochland.

Miss Evelyn Herndon arrived in Richmond from Fredericksburg to spend some time visiting friends here.

Bladen Tayloe, of King George county, is the guest of friends in Richmond this week.

J. L. Pattison, of this city, is visiting relatives in Wytheville.

Granville Gray has returned to Richmond, after spending several days last week in Berryville, Va.

Miss Bessie L. Bowers, who has been visiting friends in this city, has returned to her home in Lynchburg.

Lee J. Graves, of Fredericksburg, is spending some time in this city as the guest of friends.

John Meredith left Tuesday for Baltimore, where he will attend the Country School this session.

John G. Sizer returned to Richmond yesterday after spending the summer at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs.

Misses Marguerite Cline and Emma Green, of Alexandria, are visiting Mrs. Robert Deavers in Richmond.

Mrs. J. W. Parrish and grandchildren, Corinne and John C. Parrish, of Lynchburg, are the guests of friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Payne, of Charlottesville, arrived in Richmond yesterday, and are registered at the Lexington Hotel.

Miss Ruth Eleanor Sager, of Hampton, is the guest of Mrs. John N. Gorman, of 1008 Floyd Avenue.

Mrs. Rebecca Shackelford is spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Walker, on Park Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Christian have returned to Richmond, after spending some time at Virginia Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taliaferro and Miss Taliaferro, of Gloucester, are in Richmond for several days.

Miss Mattie Lee Spencer, of Newport News, is visiting friends in this city for some time.

Mrs. Leslie Young, who has been the guest of Mrs. Horace Welford Jones at 200 East Franklin Street, has returned to her home in Scottsville.

Matthew Gilmour has returned to the city, after a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Sterling, at Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Shirley Carter, who has been the guest of relatives here for several weeks, has returned to her home in Norfolk.

Rev. D. S. Henkel, of this city, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Hughes, at her home in Newport News, Va.

Mrs. Livius Lankford, of Norfolk, is visiting relatives in Petersburg and Richmond.

STUART ANSWERS HIS OPPONENTS

Defends His Record and Sharply Criticizes Congressman Slemph.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Big Stone Gap, Va., October 5.—This was Democratic day at Big Stone Gap. Between twelve and fifteen hundred people from this place and the surrounding section heard issues ably discussed by Mr. Stuart, Senator Swanson, Captain J. F. Bullitt and Judge W. S. Mathews. The speaking was held on the athletic grounds, in a speakers' stand erected in front of the large grandstand, which has a seating capacity of from 500 to 1,000 people.

John W. Chalkley, precinct chairman, presented Captain Bullitt, who made a rousing talk of thirty minutes length, dwelling on the fundamental differences between the two parties. He strongly endorsed Stuart, whom he introduced as the next speaker, and worked the audience up to a high degree of enthusiasm.

Mr. Stuart made a fine speech of an hour and half in length. It was well received and liberally applauded. He covered the tariff and Slemph's record, about as in former speeches, and said he stood on his public record, and proposed to criticize Mr. Slemph.

He quoted from Slemph's circular showing what he had done for the district, and said the people could well afford to pay it back and retire him. He defended the new Constitution and favored repealing the Fifteenth Amendment. He replied fully to the charges that there were only seven present at the mass-meeting in Russell called by him on the proclamation of a new Constitution, and said of the 2,312 votes he got 2,200, and was representative of all the people of Russell in the Constitutional Convention.

He produced the Lebanon News of May 2, 1902, which contained the call to voters of Russell to meet him in Lebanon on the first day of May court, 1902, to discuss the new Constitution, also the Lebanon News of May 16, 1902, containing an account of the meeting, showing that the large representative crowd there, without suggestion from him, unanimously instructed him to vote to proclaim the Constitution, which issue also contained the minutes of the meeting, signed by J. C. Gent, chairman, and G. B. Johnson, secretary.

Mr. Stuart read an affidavit sent him from Lebanon, signed by twelve leading citizens of Russell who were present at the mass-meeting, who said that between 400 and 500 were present and participating as representative citizens. Democrats and Republicans, and that instruction to proclaim the Constitution was unanimous. He denounced Johnson, who turned Republican several years ago.

After Mr. Stuart's speech Hon. R. Tate Irvine in a few happy remarks

Popular Nominee and Senator Swanson at Pennington Gap.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Pennington Gap, Va., October 5.—Yesterday was another big day for Henry C. Stuart, Republican nominee for the Senate.

Swanson arrived in Pennington Gap Monday night from Ewing, where they spoke to an immense crowd. The crowd seemed to favor Stuart with an ideal day. The sun arose in clear sky, giving promise of a large attendance for the rally here. Long before the Senator and Mr. Stuart had their breakfast at the hotel, throngs of people gathered about the lobby, anxious to get a chance to greet the candidates.

At 10 o'clock the Senator and Stuart, accompanied by a large number of people, representing the various interests, incident to the coal industry, all of whom were enthusiastic for Stuart, entered the hall.

By 9 o'clock the town was full of people, many of whom came out on horseback to hear the popular candidate. Hundreds of men called to talk in person with Mr. Stuart at the hotel, and to tell with pride of the great work and interest being taken in his behalf in the various communities.

The local committee at the Gap had made excellent preparations for the big crowd of people. They had erected in a beautiful grove of oaks a large restaurant, where every one could be comfortable. The Pennington Gap band made excellent music, and entertained the crowd until the speakers mounted the rostrum.

When the speakers mounted the rostrum they looked out upon a vast audience of more than 1,500 people. The speaker, Mr. Stuart, then addressed the audience there seemed to come to him from the audience a veritable inspiration, his words were full of gold.

When he came to deal with the question in hand he told the people that the gold mine was not in the earth, but in the mind of the people. He then read the first page of Slemph's letter to the Ninth District, written before the election of the Senator.

Slemph, the text was, he said, the man who has the power to act is to be judged not by his words, but by his acts. Mr. Stuart then read the letter, and the audience listened with interest.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

THE MATCHLESS STORE

Men's 59c Fancy Negligee Shirts

Sizes 14½ to 16½, cut full, sleeves well faced; sale price, announced a recess, and an old Virginia barbecue was enjoyed.

35c

General R. A. Ayers was to have spoken after dinner, but had to leave on the 10 o'clock train and had not time to judge A. Mathews introduced Senator Swanson, making very witty and sarcastic allusions to the plebe brigade, speakers and campaign managers, and introduced Swanson as a worthy successor to the "Lame Lion" or Lynchburg.

Senator Swanson made a fine speech, discussing the tariff in detail, and showing Slemph's subservience to Uncle Joe; that Slemph voted for 2 per cent increase on purchases in his district and 30 per cent decrease on products of his district. He carried the audience by his sallies of wit and good hits at the tariff and stand-patism, and closed by appealing to progressive Republicans to support Stuart.

STUART ASSAILS SLEMP.

Popular Nominee and Senator Swanson at Pennington Gap.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Pennington Gap, Va., October 5.—Yesterday was another big day for Henry C. Stuart, Republican nominee for the Senate.

Swanson arrived in Pennington Gap Monday night from Ewing, where they spoke to an immense crowd. The crowd seemed to favor Stuart with an ideal day. The sun arose in clear sky, giving promise of a large attendance for the rally here. Long before the Senator and Mr. Stuart had their breakfast at the hotel, throngs of people gathered about the lobby, anxious to get a chance to greet the candidates.

At 10 o'clock the Senator and Stuart, accompanied by a large number of people, representing the various interests, incident to the coal industry, all of whom were enthusiastic for Stuart, entered the hall.

By 9 o'clock the town was full of people, many of whom came out on horseback to hear the popular candidate. Hundreds of men called to talk in person with Mr. Stuart at the hotel, and to tell with pride of the great work and interest being taken in his behalf in the various communities.

The local committee at the Gap had made excellent preparations for the big crowd of people. They had erected in a beautiful grove of oaks a large restaurant, where every one could be comfortable. The Pennington Gap band made excellent music, and entertained the crowd until the speakers mounted the rostrum.

When the speakers mounted the rostrum they looked out upon a vast audience of more than 1,500 people. The speaker, Mr. Stuart, then addressed the audience there seemed to come to him from the audience a veritable inspiration, his words were full of gold.

When he came to deal with the question in hand he told the people that the gold mine was not in the earth, but in the mind of the people. He then read the first page of Slemph's letter to the Ninth District, written before the election of the Senator.

Slemph, the text was, he said, the man who has the power to act is to be judged not by his words, but by his acts. Mr. Stuart then read the letter, and the audience listened with interest.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.

Mr. Stuart showed present and Payne-Aldrich bill was an upward revision, made in the interests of trusts, combines and monopolies, and not in the interests of common people.

Mr. Stuart then read extracts from the Senator's speeches, calling attention to the Republican Senators to witness the truth of his case, as well as thirty insurgent Republican Congressmen, and when he had finished with Slemph's acts and record he buried him beneath the wreckage of his own broken promises. At the close of his speech he was greeted with a great applause, and men and women hastened to the rostrum to congratulate him, and for a while the hall was a hubbub of shouting and congratulatory remarks.

After a few minutes the speaker seemed to be coming off, instead of a political gathering.

After a few minutes, served to the crowd, Robert L. Pennington, of Jonesville, introduced Senator Claude A. Swanson. When he came to the front he was greeted with tremendous applause.

Senator Swanson made an excellent address. He exposed the corruption of the standard Republican party's policy, and showed that instead of being the friend of the people, as Slemph boasted, he had imposed a heavy burden on them, so grievous that the party itself had become divided, and that the few of the Republican Senators and Congressmen refused any longer to see the people robbed by such methods and frauds.